 Special regulation for assistants in nursing

The German labour market is also open to assistants in nursing from third countries. This means that people with less than three years of vocational training in nursing – or training recognised as less than three years – are able to work in the health and care sector. To find out if you need a visa to enter or a residence permit to stay in Germany, see the “Do I need a visa?” section.

You want to work as an assistant in nursing?

To take up employment as an assistant in nursing, you must meet the following conditions:

- You must have a concrete job offer as an assistant in nursing in Germany. Ideally, you will have already signed an employment contract with your future employer.
- You have successfully completed vocational training as a nursing or care assistant in Germany
- or you have a foreign nursing qualification that is recognised in Germany for the purpose of assisting in nursing: For more information on the procedure for the recognition of foreign. qualifications, please visit the “Anerkennung in Deutschland” portal.

Which residence title do third-country nationals need?

If you are not a citizen of an EU/EEA State or Switzerland, you must apply for a residence title before taking up employment as an assistant in nursing. This is issued if the Federal Employment Agency \(BA\) has approved your employment under Section 22a of the Ordinance on the Employment of Foreigners ↗ (BeschV). The Federal Employment Agency will check that your working conditions are equivalent to those of German assistants in nursing.

Special regulation from age 45

If you are over the age of 45, you must earn a certain gross annual salary for employment in Germany or provide proof of adequate pension provision. In 2026, this minimum salary is €55,770.

The residence permit for employment as an assistant in nursing ([Section 19c \(1\) of the Residence Act \[AufenthG\]](#) ↗ in conjunction with Section 22a of the Ordinance on the Employment of Foreigners ↗ [BeschV]) is issued for the duration of the employment contract plus three months. If you have a permanent employment contract, you will be granted a residence permit for a maximum of four years.

Approval by the Federal Employment Agency

Approval of the Federal Employment Agency (BA) is obtained as an internal agency procedure as part of the visa process. No action is required on your part.

If you are still in your home country, find out about the visa procedure and entry requirements.
